Supplies to Bring:

Paper: Preferably a sanded paper such as Uart 600 grit, ColourFix, Sennelier Card, etc. Any sanded pastel paper works best. Canson Mi-Tiente paper full sheets will suffice if you can't get sanded (coated) pastel papers. Check Michaels, Hobby Lobby, and Cheap Joes locally.

Pastels: Soft (chalk) pastels (not Oil Pastels) with warm and cool (darks and light) colors in greens, yellows (browns and ochres and light yellows), blues (dark, mid tones and lights), reds i.e., orange. White will be used sparingly.

Drawing board and easel if you own one; we have table easels available at SASi.

Kneaded eraser or stiff bristle brush for lifting/erasing; blending tool optional (I will have some pipe insulation for blending underpainting for those who don't have one).

Class Process:

We will be rendering skies in Three Ways: Blended Sky; Fractured Sky; and Energetic Sky. Blended skies will be simple skies, using a light blending process to keep it fresh; Fractured skies is using a small portion of the sky where several colors of similar value are lightly layered together to give any airy and luminous look. Energetic sky is opposite of the first two blended skies; this sky rendering consists of direct, bold, and energetic strokes/marks. This last method uses an optical blend with several layers of colors layered without blending with blending tool or fingers.
